AUDIO SPECIALIST

To the 2K Team:

My name is Jorge Madrid, I am 28 years old and I am currently looking for a job in the audio industry; specifically, I would like to work in areas related to foley sounds, music and audio composition for videogames/teasers and similar products, mixing and recording or developing audio tools. I am aware the 2K job position requires 5+ years of professional experience in some of these areas and therefore I am most likely to be rejected because I do not match this requirement.

However, I still wanted to apply for this position because I am passionate about this and perhaps you would consider me for a more junior position where I could potentially further develop my audio skills and prove to the team that I can be a great asset and create quality content.

Furthermore, I would like to ask you if it might be possible to get some feedback from you on what is expected for a perfect candidate in this area; I come from a more technical background and the transition to the creative part can be a bit overwhelming, but maybe you could give me some pointers on what should I work on to increase my possibilities of landing a sound-related job with 2K in the future. Looking forward to hearing from you and thanks in advance.

Signed:

Jorge Madrid Portillo
